Editorial: Green Legacy for a lush Ethiopia

This year marks the fourth round of Ethiopia's 'Green Legacy' campaign to plant and care for seedlings across the country. A total of 17.4 billion seedlings were planted over the four-year duration. Every year, over 20 million people participated in the planting and nurturing of seedlings. The federal government, regions all the way to the zonal and woreda levels, and stakeholders from all sectors have all worked hard to demonstrate institutional coordination.

Quote of the Month

“As we embark on the fourth round Green Legacy, the central idea is that Ethiopia is not only capable of initiating and completing larger visions, but also of learning from the process and sharing the lessons with the rest of the world. In light of this message for our continent and country, it is critical to examine and understand the work from this same perspective.”

– Prime Minister Abiy Ahmed
